Drive For Recreation Fund Opens With Bang

Kraft, Lownes and Lancaster Start "Ball Rolling" With Donations of $2,500

Money-raising campaign for the new Ocean Beach recreation center started with the proverbial "bang" at a public mass meeting held at the Ocean Beach elementary school Tuesday evening. Ten thousand dollars is the goal set for Ocean Beach community to raise, announced Rev. J. F. Roberts, chairman of the community civic committee, who presided at the meeting.

Main part of the "bang" was the $2,500 promised by three civic leaders of Ocean Beach, with which to "start the ball rolling." The financial campaign will get under way full blast Monday with a house-to-house canvass by a large corps of helpers. The three large contributions are from Fred H. Kraft, local druggist; Joe Lownes, local store owner, and Milton Lancaster owner of a local store. Lownes is donating $1,000 and Lancaster $500, according to announcement made at the meeting. Kraft, who was one of the speakers called on, planked down a check for $1,000 following his brief talk, in which he said this money comes from "an independent merchant who has made his money in Ocean Beach and leaves his money in Ocean Beach." Ocean Beach, he said, has always been known as a great place to raise children and next to the public library, he said, this recreation center project is the greatest community betterment effort that has come to Ocean Beach. Lancaster spoke of the great need for the project, of the untiring efforts of Chairman Roberts and of the unity and enthusiasm that has been aroused here for a community recreation center.

Other speakers called on were G. C. Cray, new city councilman; E. H. Klenke, chairman of the city recreation committee; Wm. A. Kearns, city recreation director; Lloyd Greeson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who gave assurance that the Chamber of Commerce is backing this recreation center. Mrs. D. C. Muchmore, Mrs. W. L. Mead and Mrs. Martha K. McIntosh. All three representatives of the city government announced that the city officials are lending their hearty support to the proposition, as well as to provide funds for the purchase of the lots and to help finance the construction of the building contemplated.

Chairman Roberts announced that the committee had prepared receipts which will be given to each solicitor and which will constitute the credentials needed to show that the solicitors are authorized to make an appeal for the contributions and to collect same. Handbills publicizing the solicitation have been distributed by Ocean Beach Boy Scouts.

The Ocean Beach community has been divided into sections for the canvass and a key woman placed at the head of each. Each will have a number of helpers to do the soliciting and the plan is to complete the campaign soon as possible and to hold another public meeting on August 29, at which reports on the drive will be made. Mrs. Mead, who is in general charge of collections, announces that the key women are the following:

Mrs. L. A. Duer, 4441 Temecula st., for section 1, area north of Voltaire st.

Mrs. W. J. Brewer, 4895 Muir ave., section 2, from Voltaire to Newport and from Sunset Cliffs to the ocean.

Mrs. Vernon Gerhardt, 2017 Guizot ave., section 3, from Voltaire to Newport and from Sunset Cliffs to Catalina blvd.

Mrs. Chas. W. Batt, 4747 Niagara ave., section 4, from Newport to Pt. Loma and from Sunset Cliffs to the ocean.

Mrs. George Hart, 4353 Newport, section 5, from Newport to Coronado and from Sunset Cliffs to Catalina.

Mrs. Al McConnell, 1413 Froude March.

st., section 5A, from Coronado to Pt. Loma and from Sunset Cliffs to Catalina.

Mrs. B. H. Nielsen, 4581 Granger st., section 6, from Pt. Loma to Hill st. and from Novara to Santa Barbara.

Mrs. K. G. Flickinger, 1206 Alexander dr., section 7, from Novara and Santa Barbara over the hill to Catalina.

Mrs. Mead urges women wishing to volunteer their services to apply to anyone of the key women named or to her. Her address is 1626 Ebers st. and her phone number is B-4827.

IN THE SERVICE -

Warrant Officer Frank Sieckman, 4508 Bermuda ave., is home on a leave from his duties on an aircraft carrier in the South Pacific, to visit his wife and three children.

Cpl. Donald Popek, son of Leo Popek, who has established a radio shop here, left Saturday for Camp Lejeune, N. C. He had visited his parents here for three weeks following 26 months of service with the Marines in the South Pacific.

Ralph Poole, a chief pharmacist's mate, came last week from Chicago and visited over the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Golden, 4936 Del Monte ave. He left here for Long Beach, where he has been assigned to duty with the navy.

T/Sgt. Wm. J. Crawford, formerly of Ocean Beach, writes that he is now stationed at the Naval training base at Mohave, Calif. His family, who live at 3168 Bancroft st., hope to join him soon, if they are able to obtain a house there.

Charles Joseph Allen, former Marine who saw service in Iwo and the South Pacific, has rejoined the corps and as a platoon sergeant has been ordered to the Marine Air station at Miramar. Allen's wife resides at 4584 Fivoli st.

Lawrence A. McCall, chief boat-swain's mate with the Navy, expects to leave Friday (today) for the Atlantic coast for a new assignment with the Navy. He has been here for about two weeks visiting his wife and his mother, Mrs. Bessie Clarke, 4367 Menone ave.

Edward Plant, 4768 Cape May ave., retired C.C.S.T.D. of the Navy, reports receipt of a letter from his son, Edward Louis Plant, QM 2/c, stationed in the South Pacific, being the first letter received from the young man in four months. Seaman Plant reported himself in good health and spirits. He has been overseas for 15 months, reports his father.

Cpl. Leslie T. Titchenell, 5116 Narragansett ave., was one of the first in a rescue party of Yanks serving with the U. S. army in England which carried civilians injured in a recent robot bomb attack near an American billet in southern England. The organization to which he was attached had just started out in formation when the bomb struck. Fortunately none of the Yanks was injured.

Arthur Ralph Ingalls, Bluejacket son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ingalls, 1627 Ocean Front blvd., has just graduated from the Aviation Ordnance school at the Naval Air Technical training center, Norman, Okla., with the rating of seaman first class, the Eleventh Naval District announced today. A former student at Point Loma high school and employee of an aircraft plant, Ingalls entered Naval service last January and was assigned to the Oklahoma school in Chicago for 18 years.

Campaign Started to Provide War Honor Roll for Ocean Beach

Above is pictured the honor roll for Ocean Beach men and women serving in this war, establishment of which the local Chamber of Commerce and the Kiwanis club are jointly sponsoring.

Location for the honor roll has not been finally decided, reports Pres. Lloyd Greeson of Chamber of Commerce. The committee is open to suggestions with the idea that the most popular and appropriate place may be chosen. The Sand-Oster clinic has generously offered free use of its grounds. plaque measures 12 feet 2 inches high, boundaries of zone 7 are as follows: Other locations that have been suggested are the public library and grounds and the city property at zite, gold stamped name-panels.

Manufacturers report it is "sturdy, built, thoroughly weather-resistant and expertly finished. In roll will be hung, of course, will be done locally. Material and shape and exact size have not yet been decided, reports Greeson.

The picture above is only service-women in Ocean Beach for the purpose of showing the community as determined by the honor roll plaque itself. The boundaries of postal zone 7 are as follows:

West Pt. Loma blvd. on the north, south boundary of Azure Vista on the south; and on the east, Catalina blvd., Chatsworth blvd., Clove st., Voltaire st., San Clemente st. and Famosa st.

In zone 7 there are 4477 houses, with an estimated 5000 families and an estimated population of between 18,000 and 20,000.

Cooperation From Residents Lacking Says Refuse Head

Blame for littered streets and alleys in Ocean Beach was placed on residents here Friday by William Clark, superintendent of the division of refuse collection of the department of public works. He came out in response to a letter from the local Chamber of Commerce. At the July meeting, the organization had deplored the unsightly appearance of alleys and streets, had launched a campaign for correction of this condition and since the meeting had written a letter to Fred Rhodes, director of the city department of public works.

Clark stated that the city is not getting the cooperation it ought to have from Ocean Beach residents, that many of them are not complying with the city's refuse regulations. He admitted, however, that lack of compliance likely was due in some measure to ignorance on the part of the residents here of what the city's rules on refuse collection are. By way of helping to remedy this situation, he provided The News with an announcement of the days for collection of garbage and rubbish to be published next week.

Garbage Twice a Week. Of the garbage, meaning "food wastes from kitchens, dining rooms or similar places," collection is made twice a week, and collection of rubbish is made once a week.

Leo Popek, who moved to San Diego with his family about four months ago, this week opened a radio shop in the Dr. J. W. Wilhoit building at 1874 Bacon st., where he will have his business in conjunction with that of Lewis T. Oaks. The latter recently moved to this location for his home movie business from Voltaire st. Mr. Popek had been engaged in the radio business in Chicago for 18 years.

Buttons Covering Shop to Open Here Monday

What is to be known as the Omega Button Covering Shop will be opened next Monday, August 7, in the building at 1927 Bacon st. Mrs. Josephine G. Carpenter, who will be the proprietor, announces that she will "specialize in service on button coverings, button holes, and hemstitching and also will carry a line of children's dresses, dress trimmings and toys for sale." She comes to the business with many years of experience in that kind of service, having been employed by the Singer Sewing Machine Company in San Diego.

Kiwanians Hear Story of Famous Mayo Bros. Clinic

Refusing to leave the small city of Rochester, Minn., for practice in the large medical centers of this country, Dr. Will Mayo remained there all during his active adult career to establish the world's most famous clinic, Dr. Alfred Sand told the Ocean Beach Kiwanis club at their meeting of Tuesday evening. His talk was on the Mayo Bros. Clinic.

"Though his brother, Dr. Chas. Mayo, had more natural ability as a surgeon, Dr. Will Mayo was the guiding spirit of the Mayo clinic," said the speaker. "Dr. Will had an overwhelming desire to excel in the practice of his profession."

Dr. Sand attributed much of Dr. Will Mayo's greatness as a surgeon to the inspiration and advice that Dr. Will received from his father and to his practice of going to the best surgeons in the world for pointers. The elder Mayo had advised his sons to take post graduate instruction every year in the latest methods of surgery and to study an hour every day. Dr. Sand gave credit to Dr. Will Mayo for being the first to establish new improved methods in several different kinds of surgical operations.

Frank B. McElwee officiated as program chairman for the evening. Visitors included Dr. A. T. Babione of East San Diego, Merle Brady of San Diego, Dick Barbour of the San Diego club and Frank Harmon of the La Jolla club.

Usherettes at USO Anniversary Party August 13 Chosen

Committees for Ocean Beach USO first anniversary party to be held Sunday, Aug. 13, are busy on their preparations for the event. "Open house" to the public for this event is scheduled for 2 to 11 p.m., with program, floor show and dance as features of the entertainment. The program is set for 2 to 3 p.m., the floor show for 3 to 4 p.m., a birthday cake feast from 4 to 5 p.m. and the dance from 8 to 11 p.m.

A meeting of the junior hostesses was held Monday evening to make further plans for the anniversary. Mrs. Grace Greeson presided as chairman. They selected as usherettes for the floor show, Arlene Newberg, Frances Benson, Margerie Stark, Cutler Robinson and Pat Coakley. Chosen to serve during the evening were Margerie Stark, Henry Loyal, Navy servicemen, and one Marine.

The committee is preparing formal invitations to be sent to other USO organizations and to the honored guests.

A question box is being placed in the clubrooms, where all servicemen and service-women can place their requests for various forms of entertainment.

VICTORY BELL WILL BE DEDICATED ON AUGUST 10

San Diego's "Victory" bell will be dedicated on Thursday, Aug. 10 at 11:30 a.m., according to announcement made at a meeting of the Central committee of Civilian Defense, held in the Chamber of Commerce building Tuesday, reports Mrs. Bertha Leadbeater of Ocean Beach. She is assistant district leader of Civilian Defense here, and attended the meeting for Mrs. Dorothy Miller, Ocean Beach, the district leader, who is ill. All Civilian Defense workers in this community are invited to attend the dedication. The bell, which weighs 300 pounds, has been placed on the Plaza in town, and the plan is to ring it every day at 12:15 p.m., seven strokes each time, for and until victory in this war and to remind San Diegans hearing it to pray especially for our fighting men on all the battlefronts, according to Mrs. Leadbeater.

"PEANUTS" BELT SAFE IN NEUTRAL COUNTRY, LETTER FROM HIM TELLS FOLKS

Junior "Peanuts" Belt, who had previously been reported missing in action over Germany, is now safe in a neutral country, according to word received this week in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marion L. Belt, 4575 Santa Monica ave. He writes that he is "happy and fine and is wearing civilian clothes."

He had been in the thick of the air battles over continental Europe and had been engaged in at least 13 missions as a gunner on a Yank plane.

"Peanuts" Belt is a graduate of Point Loma high and was a star member of the football team while in school there.

Strand Theatre Installs $1,500 Of New Equipment

With the idea of further improving its sound service to patrons, the Strand theatre management has completed the installation of $1,500 worth of new equipment. What is known as a "Century" mechanism has been installed on the theatre's projector, a device which gives a steadier picture and a clearer focus than was the case heretofore, according to Harry Hamilton, the projectionist.

Hamilton, who has been operating the projector at the local playhouse for 18 years, explained Saturday some of the handicaps that a motion picture theatre is up against in operating under the war-time conditions of manpower shortage and inability to buy materials and supplies that have the quality they had in peace time. He explained there are at least three causes for "stops" in operation of the projector.

Overloaded electric current is one of them, he said. In the evening during the greatest use of electricity for lighting in Ocean Beach, there is an overload on the wires that may cause "stops." Inability to get carbons of the high quality available in peace time is another. The "Victory" carbons in use for the projector are at best too thin and have a tendency to break. Then the rectifier tube is not 100 per cent perfect and is liable to "go out." The latter

Three Teams Tie For First in Hoop Tournament Play

In basketball games played last Thursday night La Jolla A team, led by Frank Cardenas and his 26 points, defeated the La Jolla B team, league leaders, 56-37 to go into a tie with them for first place in the Davis building tournament play program.

Second game of the evening found Rice's Yanks eke out a close one over the Pt. Loma Bs, 46-41. The Yanks scoring was led by Bob White with 14. For the Pt. Loma Bs top scorers were Rich Stangle with 17 and Ken Lyons with 12. In the last game of the evening Stone's Stars ran rough shod over Pt. Loma As 60 to 20. Bill Kettenburg, current scoring leader, scored 38 points.

League standings follow:

	Won	Lost
La Jolla A	6	5
La Jolla B	6	5
Stone's Stars	6	5
Point Loma B	5	6

MOTHER OF MRS. EARLY PASSES AWAY IN TEXAS

Mrs. C. W. Early, 4514 Narragansett ave., received word early this week of the death of her mother, Mrs. H. P. King, in Alto, Tex. She passed away Saturday evening at the age of 84, and in the old family home in which she had been born and raised.

Due to the congested travel conditions and to the fact that she had visited her mother on a recent trip to Texas, Mrs. Early did not make the journey to attend the funeral.

Two causes in particular are of the unforeseen variety, naturally, he says.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Reports of Revolt in Germany Follow Bomb Attack on Hitler; Yank Forces Push Guam Drive

Released by Western Newspaper Union.
(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

DEMOCRATS:

1944 Platform

Declaring that their platform really was Franklin D. Roosevelt himself, the Democrats meeting in Chicago for their national convention renominated the President for a fourth term, and called for the continuance of New Deal domestic policies and the creation of a world organization to preserve peace through use of force if necessary.

For agriculture, the Democrats pledged price guarantees and crop insurance, and declared their objective to be to keep it on a parity with industry and labor; extend rural electrification and develop broader domestic and foreign markets for farm products.

For the postwar period, the Democratic platform asked compensation for workers during demobilization, reduction or repeal of wartime taxes and simplification of the tax structure, and encouragement of risk capital and new enterprise.

Besides U. S. participation in an organization to keep world peace, the party's foreign relations platform called for extension of the administration's trade policies, and reaffirmation in the principles of the Atlantic Charter.

PACIFIC:

Jap Shakeup

With the invasion of Guam, U. S. forces took one step closer to the Japanese and Asiatic mainland, even as the enemy reorganized his government at home with the fall of Premier Hedeki Tojo and his cabinet.

In reorganizing the government under leadership of two confirmed militarists and advocates of Japanese expansion southward, official Tokyo declared that the objective was to give the civilian element

British forces clean out Nazi snipers on outskirts of Caen.

EUROPE:

Stubborn Foe

Allied forces continued to slug forward in Normandy, gaining ground by the yard in the face of stubborn German do-or-die resistance all along the curving front.

Fighting was intense both on the western end of the front where U. S. forces pressed forward against the enemy holding out behind the cover of the tall, thick hedgerows checking the countryside, and on the eastern end where British armored columns broke through the foe's formations in the open plains. With about 75,000 men facing the British in this sector, Nazi Marshal Rommel attempted to curtail the Allied drive by sharp counterattacks.

British forces exerted the heaviest pressure in recent fighting because the open country allowed use of their armored equipment behind terrific artillery barrages. Bad weather continued to hamper full scale operations of the Allied air force, both in support tactics and bombardment of enemy communications behind the lines.

Internal Revolt

With the Allies pressing in on all sides, Hitler is faced with internal revolt within Germany, with the Nazis reporting that a clique of army officers sought to establish a new government and prepare the groundwork for surrender.

Climax of the sensational plot was the attempted assassination of Hitler with a bomb, which exploded within 6 feet of him, causing him slight injury and more seriously hurting 13 of his aides.

Moving swiftly to quell the revolt, which reportedly had the support of high ranking army officers, the Nazis executed several of the ring-leaders and designated Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler as commander within Germany to suppress the uprising. Rebels' plans reportedly called for seizure of control of the country through military units.

Addressing the German people over the radio after the attempt on his life, Hitler roared: "... I am convinced that by stamping out this very small clique of traitors... we will now at last create that atmosphere in the rear at home which the fighting front needs..."

Russ Advance

Russian armies continued to exert the strongest pressure on the eastern front, continuing their drive on East Prussia in the north and rolling deeper into Poland farther to the south.

As the Russians pressed the Germans on the east, Allied troops moved against the Nazis' vaunted "Gothic line" in northern Italy, with an easing of their problems of supply promised with the capture and hasty repair of the western seaport of Livorno, through which 17,500 tons of shipping can be cleared daily.

With German resistance stiffening around East Prussia, the Russians swung the brunt of their attack further southward in Poland, outflanking the big industrial city of Lwow and fanning out on the open plains below Warsaw. The Russian breakthroughs continued to force the Germans to pull back to prevent encirclement from the rear.

Rest and Treatment Given to War Veterans

(Right) shows a Saipan veteran, still wearing his battle togs, being given a foot X-ray at a medical base in Saipan after he had been brought in wounded from the fighting line. Pharmacist's Mate FC Frank E. Newkirk of Camp Bellsburg, Ind., is operating the machine in order to determine the extent of injuries to the marine.

Wallace and Truman Led Early Convention Lists

Vice President Henry Wallace rushed to the convention to carry on his fight as well as serve as delegate from Iowa to the Democratic national convention. Letter from President Roosevelt preceded him to Chicago. He entered the convention with more pledged delegates than any other candidate. (Right) Sen. Harry S. Truman of Missouri, who did not "choose" to run, was early boomed for the vice presidential nomination as a compromise candidate.

German 'Withdrawal' in Europe

Germany's supreme war council, according to dispatch from Madrid, has decided to withdraw its forces from occupied countries. On three fronts, East, West, and South, Nazi manpower is spreading thin, after almost five years of war, because of mounting losses.

California Ship Explosion

Versatile Machine
A postwar plastic washing machine with push-button control will automatically perform all washing, rinsing and drying operations, according to Plastics magazine.

Safe to Use
Pyrethrum is safe to use on any vegetable at any time. It is effective against many of the common pests but is not as good a general purpose insecticide as rotenone and little is available.

Open Kettle Canning
Open-kettle canning is generally satisfactory for such products as pickle relishes, preserves and jams. It should never be used for nonacid vegetables or for meat, poultry and fish because the heat is insufficient to guard against spoilage and possible poisoning. It is not even approved for fruits and tomatoes because of the danger of recontamination before the jars are sealed.

Chinese Oil
With regard to oil, the Chinese geological survey, in 1934, estimated that China proper had a known reserve of over 2 billion barrels. There were also 2 billion barrels of mineral oil in Manchuria. The national total, therefore, was over 4 billion barrels. This estimate, however, is very conservative as the important Kansu and Sinkiang reserves are not included.

Give Nurses Rank
The National Defense act of June 4, 1920, carried an amendment providing for "relative rank" for members of the army nurse corps. This for the first time gave army nurses the dignity and status of commissioned officers, though the pay and allowances provided were not the same as those received by officers of equivalent grade.

Hot Pack
A hot pack is now generally recommended for nonacid vegetables, for meats, and for most fruits. The food is first partially precooked, then packed in hot containers, and the jars filled with boiling liquid. This method allows more food to be packed into the container since the precooking shrinks food such as greens. Less time is required for heat to reach the center of the jars because the food is already hot.

Foreign Representative The first foreign representative of the Colonies had been Silas Deane. In March, 1776, he was appointed by congress as a commercial and political agent to France. He was a native of Groton, Conn., and a member of the first congress. It was to Deane that LaFayette first tendered his services.

Bite at Night The malarial mosquitoes bite most frequently at night. They spend the daytime in dark places and houses and barns. Because these mosquitoes bite at night, the superstition developed that night air was dangerous. The night air of Greece and Rome was dangerous, but only because it was full of mosquitoes carrying malaria.

Give Nurses Rank The National Defense act of June 4, 1920, carried an amendment providing for "relative rank" for members of the army nurse corps. This for the first time gave army nurses the dignity and status of commissioned officers, though the pay and allowances provided were not the same as those received by officers of equivalent grade.

Chinese Oil With regard to oil, the Chinese geological survey, in 1934, estimated that China proper had a known reserve of over 2 billion barrels. There were also 2 billion barrels of mineral oil in Manchuria. The national total, therefore, was over 4 billion barrels. This estimate, however, is very conservative as the important Kansu and Sinkiang reserves are not included.

COMPLICATED ARRANGEMENT OF FARM CREDIT

FOR A WEEK I have devoted a portion of each day to an effort to fathom the intricacies of government farm financing as operated by 10 different agencies of the government.

In a brochure of less than 20 pages the Citizens National committee, 1409 L street, Washington, has attempted to interpret how it is done and with what result, through only a small portion of these ten or more agencies. It is not the fault of that Committee that I do not understand; it is because the whole thing is so intricate and so complicated that it is beyond the scope of my thinking and analytical capacities.

It reminds me much of that inverted pyramid of industrial and finance corporations built by Insull, the crash of which tumbled many thousands, supposedly wealthy or well-to-do people from a pinnacle of imagined wealth to the depths of poverty. The only staple thing about that Insull inverted pyramid was its foundation of operating utility plants. They continued to operate. The only staple thing about the various financing administrations, corporations, bureaus, associations and what have you in this medley of farm financing, is the foundation, the credit of the government, backed by the pocket-book of the American taxpayer.

I think my week of studious effort succeeded in unravelling one small snarl. As I interpret it, congress, in 1933, established Production Credit Corporations and Associations, the Production Credit Associations being the offspring of the Corporations. The Corporations were financed with government funds, and these, in turn, financed the Associations with government funds and without any interest charges. The investment of the government, through the Credit Corporations, was represented by non-voting stock in the Associations. As conditions improved, congress had expected the farmers to buy up this government-owned stock and make of these Associations privately owned farm cooperative financing organizations.

Ten years after the government started these Associations there were, on December 31, 1943, 529 of them in operation, with a total capitalization of $102,405,376. Of that amount the government still holds, through Production Credit Corporations, $75,770,460. The farmers had taken over $26,634,916. The farmers then owned 24 per cent, and theirs was the voting stock. The farmer members controlled while the government provided most of the funds.

That was as far as I could get without assistance so I tried a local banker. He could not help me; the complications involved in the government's farm loaning operations were beyond him. From the report of the Committee he understood many of the Associations were losing propositions, despite the fact that they paid no interest on the government money they were loaning. That, possibly, was the reason the canny, hard-headed, conservative farmer did not buy up the government stock in Production Credit Associations.

BEAUTIFUL FESTIVAL OF ORANGE, CALIFORNIA

WE AMERICANS, east and west, revere our past generations. In Boston the Pilgrims are never forgotten. In New York the early Dutch settlements are commemorated, in Virginia the memory of Capt. John Smith and his Jamestown associates is kept evergreen. So it goes from ocean to ocean. The West immortalizes those pioneers who were the founders of mighty states. Typical of the West is the annual fruit harvest festival at Orange, California. Each year it portrays the past and the present. In the colorful parade are representatives of the not far distant past; the stage coaches that are still remembered as the means of public travel; the hidalgoes of the Mexican days only 100 years ago; the burros of the miners from the nearby hills, and the horses, pinto and bronco, without which no celebration in the West is complete. With these reminders of the past were the evidences of the present—the bright-colored uniforms of the high school bands, led by high-stepping, bare-legged majorettes; beautifully decorated autos for which gas had been saved that the owners might participate in the three-mile line of march. It was a mingling of the past and the present that keeps ever green that past of romance and adventure that was the West.

THE EFFORT WE MADE, at the instigation of our theoretical bureaucrats, to Russianize the American farm cost the taxpayers more than 200 million dollars. That was not much as compared with billions, but each little bit added to what we spend mounts into the billions. Government-managed, collectivist farms proved a complete flop. That expenditure helped no one other than the bureaucratic farm managers.

Pillboxes and Tanks Wrecked in Street Fighting

Yanks Take Another City With Only Snipers and One Pillbox Left

By Ernie Pyle

IN NORMANDY.—On up the street a block there seemed to be fighting. I say seemed to be, because actually you can't always tell. Street fighting is just as confusing as field fighting.

One side will bang away for a while, then the other side. Between these sallies there are long lulls, with only stray and isolated shots. Just an occasional soldier is sneaking about, and you don't see anything of the enemy at all. You can't tell half the time just what the situation is.

About a block beyond the hospital entrance two American tanks were sitting in the middle of the street, one about 50 yards ahead of the other. I walked toward them. Our infantrymen were in doorways along the street.

I got within about 50 feet of our front tank when it let go its 75-millimeter gun. The blast was terrific there in the narrow street. Glass came tinkling down from nearby windows, smoke puffed around the tank, and the empty street was shaking and trembling with the concussion.

As the tank continued to shoot I ducked into a doorway, because I figured the Germans would shoot back. Inside the doorway there was a sort of street-level cellar, dirt-floored. Apparently there was a wine shop above, for the cellar was stacked with wire crates for holding wine bottles on their sides. There were lots of bottles, but they were all empty.

I went back to the doorway and stood peeking out at the tank. It started backing up. Then suddenly a yellow flame pierced the bottom of the tank and there was a crash of such intensity that I automatically blinked my eyes. The tank, hardly 50 feet from where I was standing, had been hit by an enemy shell.

A second shot ripped the pavement at the side of the tank. There was smoke all around, but the tank didn't catch fire. In a moment the crew came bolting out of the turret. Grim as it was, I almost had to laugh as they ran toward us. I have never seen men run so violently. They ran all over, with arms and heads going up and down and with maddening grimaces. They plunged into my doorway.

I spent the next excited hour with them. We changed to another doorway and sat on boxes in the empty hallway. The floor and steps were thick with blood where a soldier had been treated within the hour.

What had happened to the tank was this: They had been firing away at a pillbox ahead when their 75 backfired, filling the tank with smoke and blinding them.

They decided to back up in order to get their bearings, but after backing a few yards the driver was so blinded that he stopped. Unfortunately he stopped exactly at the foot of a side street. More unfortunately there was another German pillbox up the side street. All the Germans had to do was take easy aim and let go at the sitting duck.

The first shot hit a tread, so the tank couldn't move. That was when the boys got out. I don't know why the Germans didn't fire at them as they poured out.

The escaped tankers naturally were excited, but they were as jubilant as June-bugs and ready for more. They had never been in combat before the invasion of Normandy, yet in three weeks and their tank had been shot up three times. Each time it was repaired and put back in action. And it can be repaired again this time. The name of their tank, appropriately, is "Be Back Soon."

The main worry of these boys was the fact that they had left the engine running. We could hear it chugging away. It's bad for a tank motor to idle very long. But now they were afraid to go back and turn the motor off, for the tank was still right in line with the hidden German gun.

Also, they had come out wearing their leather crash helmets. Their steel helmets were still inside the tank, and so were their rifles. "We'll be a lot of good without helmets or rifles!" one of them said.

Nazis Continue to Surrender When Going Gets Tough

We saw coming up the street, past a wrecked German truck, a group of German soldiers. An officer walked in front, carrying a Red Cross flag on a stick. Bob Capa, the photographer, braved the dangerous funnel at the end of the side street where the damaged tank stood, leaping past it and on down the street to meet the Germans.

The crew consisted of Corp. Martin Kennelly of Chicago, the tank commander; Sgt. L. Wortham, Leeds, Ala., driver; Pvt. Ralph Ogren of Minneapolis, assistant driver; Corp. Albin Stoops, Marshalltown, Del., gunner, and Pvt. Charles Rains of Kansas City, the loader.

Private Rains was the oldest of the bunch, and the only married one. He used to work as a guard at the Sears, Roebuck plant in Kansas City.

"I was M. P. to 1,500 women," he said with a grin, "and how I'd like to be back doing that!"

The other tankers all expressed loud approval of this sentiment. Tank Cmdr. Martin Kennelly of Chicago wanted to show me just where his tank had been hit. As a matter of fact he hadn't seen it for himself yet, for he came running up the street the moment he jumped out of the tank.

So when the firing died down a little we sneaked up the street until we were almost even with the disabled tank. But we were careful not to get our heads around the corner of the side street, for that was where the Germans had fired from.

The first shell had hit the heavy steel brace that the tread runs on, and then plunged on through the side of the tank, very low.

"Say!" Kennelly said in amazement. "It went right through our lower ammunition storage box! I don't know what kept the ammunition from going off. We'd have been a mess if it had. Boy, it sure would have got hot in there in a hurry!"

The street was still empty. Beyond the tank about two blocks was a German truck, sitting all alone in the middle of the street. It had been blown up, and its tires had burned off. This truck was the only thing you could see. There wasn't a human being in sight anywhere.

On the corner just across the street from where we were standing was a smashed pillbox. It was in a cut-away corner like the entrances to some of our corner drug stores at home, except that instead of there being a door there was a pillbox of reinforced concrete, with gun slits.

The tank boys had shot it to extinction and then moved their tank up even with it to get the range of the next pillbox. That one was about a block ahead, set in a niche in the wall of a building. That's what the boys had been shooting at when their tank was hit. They knocked it out, however, before being knocked out themselves.

For an hour there was a lull in the fighting. Nobody did anything about a third pillbox, around the corner. Our second tank pulled back a little and just waited. Infantrymen worked their way up to second-story windows and fired their rifles up the side street without actually seeing anything to shoot at.

Now and then blasts from a 20-mm. gun would splatter the buildings around us. Then our second tank would blast back in that general direction, over the low roofs, with its machine gun. There was a lot of dangerous-sounding noise, but I don't think anybody on either side got hit.

I didn't stay to see how the remaining pillbox was knocked out. But I suppose our second tank eventually pulled up to the corner, turned and let the pillbox have it. After that the area would be clear of everything but snipers.

The infantry, who up till then had been forced to keep in doorways, would now continue up the street and poke into the side streets and into the houses until everything was clear.

That's how a strong point in a city is taken. At least that's how ours was taken. You don't always have tanks to help, and you don't always do it with so little shedding of blood.

First he snapped some pictures of them. Then, since he speaks German, he led them on back to our side of the invisible fence of battle. Eight of them were carrying two litters bearing two wounded German soldiers. The others walked behind with their hands up. They went on past us to the hospital. We assumed that they were from the second knocked-out pillbox.

Army Fears Political Snarl In Handling News for GIs

Military Not Desirous of Cutting Off News From Armed Forces; Dislikes Entering Possible Controversy.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building
Washington, D. C.

There is a great deal of talk, some of it sincere and from the heart, some of it so dripping with sentimentality that it offends good taste, about "GI Joe" and what the country owes him.

After a bitter battle, a bill was passed in congress, following all kinds of political badminton, to provide means for the men and women in the armed services to vote in the coming election. Then, a fortnight ago, came a dispatch from the correspondent of the New York Herald-Tribune in Algiers which said:

"Unless some provocative discussion of the presidential campaign appears in the Stars & Stripes (the service newspaper) only a small percentage of the troops will vote."

A little later, Col. Egbert White (I worked with him on the original Stars & Stripes in Paris in the first World War) was relieved of his directorship of the Mediterranean editions of the Stars & Stripes and ordered to report to Washington.

About the same time, it was revealed that books like "The Republic" and similar works which have been accepted as standard textbooks are on the war department's prohibited list because congress has forbidden "political argument and propaganda" in the armed forces.

Colonel White wanted to make the Stars & Stripes as much like a metropolitan newspaper as possible. He wanted to send reporters to cover both the Republican and Democratic conventions. He wanted to have the use of a regular news report from the Associated Press wire, like any other newspaper, instead of being limited to the army news service (a digest of the news carefully screened in New York).

Receives Legion of Merit

Just how far Colonel White had gone with his ambitious plans when the pressure began, I do not know. I do know that when he first went to Africa, while General Eisenhower was still there, the Colonel's work was apparently so satisfactory that the General made him a member of his staff and he received the Legion of Merit award. But General Eisenhower departed, and another Pharaoh came to Egypt (or I should say to Algiers). For a time, White seemed to have a pretty free hand but there were no great innovations noticed in the papers he was publishing. He did start a reprint of the Reader's Digest which caused some disturbance, not because of the content, but because other magazines objected. I believe some reprints from the Saturday Evening Post were also used.

Then General Surles, head of army public relations, and Secretary of War Stimson both appeared in the war theaters and about that time White's demission occurred. He had left when President Roosevelt agreed to run again and the GIs who read the Rome edition of the Stars & Stripes learned about it in a 190-word story given third place, well down on page one under a two-column head. The Normandy campaign was given first place and the Russian offensive, second.

The coverage by the Rome Stars & Stripes of the Dewey and Bricker nominations was a 550-word story, halfway down the page, with a box containing highlights of the convention. There were also 200 words on how New York papers covered the nominations; seven paragraphs on Hoover's speech; two paragraphs on Farley. The Herald-Tribune correspondent described this as "meager" coverage due, not to the wishes of the editors, but to the restrictions.

No Public Statement

At this writing, White has not made any public statement—officials don't talk. Since the action occurred in the Mediterranean theater, Washington army officials cannot comment. They merely point to Title Five, sponsored by Senator Taft, in the soldier's vote law passed by congress.

This Title Five says that anyone responsible for permitting publication in a service organ paid for by government funds, of political argument or propaganda designed or calculated to affect the election of any federal officer can be put in jail for a year or fined a thousand dollars.

Now, the military fears a political embroglio as Br'er Fox feared brambles. They are not particularly desirous of cutting off news from the armed forces. They have no objection to having the boys get into controversy so long as it doesn't interfere in the argument with the enemy. But they have a decided dislike for getting into a controversy themselves. They say, "There is the law. We don't intend to violate it."

Colonel White's departure has started a discussion, the end of which is not yet. Will "GI Joe" get his political news? That depends on whether congress and the army simply pass the buck back and forth or whether something definite is done.

Senator Taft said when he sponsored Title Five that in the first place he had no intention of banning works accepted as textbooks in the schools. The senator met with army officials, members of the council on books in wartime, and others in New York on July 20 to discuss this question.

Taft also said to me that he felt the law need not interfere with furnishing the service newspapers with news generally circulated here. He said if the army asked for a clarifying amendment, he would be glad to take it up with congress.

I have also talked with Senator Lucas, coauthor of the original soldier's vote bill. He said he considered it "a little short of stupidity to deny the boys overseas or wherever they are, of all the information that any citizen in this country can obtain." He said he thought "something ought to be done to liberalize the regulations on publicity."

Definition Needed

There is no sign at this writing that the army will make a request for a clarifying amendment but it will be all right with them if what is considered propaganda directed to the election of a federal officer holder is clearly defined. Meanwhile, why shouldn't the military want to toe the line? Their commander-in-chief (a political candidate himself) is a Democrat. Their secretary of war, the venerable and party-loyal Henry Stimson, is a good Republican. What about Colonel White? He must have known what was ahead of him when he tried to make the Stars & Stripes a metropolitan newspaper. He must remember as I very well do the headaches he and I and the rest of the old Stars & Stripes staff caused GHQ-G2D up in Chauvin, in the last war.

The Stars & Stripes of World War II appears in London, Algiers, Casablanca, Oran, a weekly edition from Naples, editions out of Cairo for the Middle East. That is a publishing undertaking of no mean proportions intended to suit a real "GI."

But if a newspaper is any good for anything, it is supposed to view with alarm and point with pride come election time. It takes a real argument to sprout a vote. And that is what the army says congress says the Stars & Stripes must have no part in. Meanwhile, you don't expect "political argument" in the service publications if it is going to cost some honest colonel with a wife and family to support, a thousand dollar fine or a year in jail. There will have to be a clarification of the law.

Nazi Civilian Morale

A significant editorial appeared in a Cologne newspaper—Cologne, the home of the once happy, carefree Rhinelanders who cheerfully boasted of "German wine and German song"—and one of the first cities to feel the horror of the early mass raids.

"It is not easy to calm one's raging nerves," says this newspaper, and then counsels restraint and studied concealment of one's personal feelings lest others be affected, and warns against the use of sedatives.

This quotation is but one link in a growing chain of evidence revealing the state of German civilian morale.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

The Japanese Domei agency said today that approximately 30,000 school children had been evacuated from Tokyo to rural districts since July 8.

The new station Radio Cherbourg opens its daily broadcasting program with: "From the liberated soil of France, Radio Cherbourg speaks to you."

"A map is the foundation stone of any operation," says a long and precise document issued by the British Information service entitled, "Liberating a Continent—Index to Invasion."

Maps required for the Allied North African landing filled an entire warehouse at the embarkation port, the British revealed.

S. African Natives Store Grain in Huge Baskets

Natives of South Africa may not put all of their eggs in one basket, but in huge hampers they store a good deal of their grain. The average one, for example, holds 18 large bags of grain.

Although the climate is quite dry, the baskets, called "isilula," are so tightly woven that no rain can leak into them. They also keep out most rodents.

Supreme Proof
"See that man across the road?" asked Smith as they lingered chatting at the corner.

Jones nodded wearily in reply. "He's the best friend I ever had," went on Smith fervently. "When the clouds were dark and threatening, he showed a wonderful faith in me."

"How?" Jones was interested, for once.

"He lent me an umbrella."

Different Yarn
The counter was strewn with stockings, but the customer still hesitated. Drawing a deep breath, the assistant opened a new box.

"Now, these stockings, madam," she said, "are the finest you can buy. Fast color, latest shade, won't shrink, won't ladder, and the yarn is excellent."

"Yes," said the customer, with emphasis, "the yarn is excellent."

For a Match
"I think I'll get a pair of red shoes—those flatties with wedge heels," said the tall blonde.

"Why low heels?" asked her friend, in surprise.

"I want them to go with a short lieutenant."

Germers or no germers, kissing must be fully as dangerous as they make it out to be; it has put an end to a lot of bachelors.

That One Muffed
Saleslady—Oh, the darling hat! It makes Madame 10 years younger.

Customer—Won't do. I can't afford to put on 10 years every time I take off my hat.

Useless Fear
"Your mother," said the sergeant to the very awkward recruit, "is rather upset because you left home to become a soldier?"

"Yes, sir, she is," replied the awkward one.

"Well, just write and tell her not to fret any more," continued the sergeant. "Unless the war lasts 50 years you'll never be a soldier!"

"80.6% of sufferers showed CLINICAL IMPROVEMENT after only 10-day treatment with SORETONE"

Foster D. Snell, Inc., well-known consulting chemists, have just completed a test with a group of men and women suffering from Athlete's Foot. These people were told to use Soretone. At the end of only a ten-day test period, their feet were examined in two ways: 1. Scrapings were taken from the feet and examined by the bacteriologist. 2. Each subject was examined by a physician. We quote from the report:

"After the use of Soretone according to the directions on the label for a period of only ten days, 80.6% of the cases showed clinical improvement of an infection which is most stubborn to control."

Improvements were shown in the symptoms of Athlete's Foot—the itching, burning, redness, etc. The report says:

"In our opinion Soretone is of very definite benefit in the treatment of this disease, which is commonly known as 'Athlete's Foot.'"

So if Athlete's Foot troubles you, don't temporize with this nasty, devilish, stubborn infection. Get Soretone! McKesson & Robbins, Inc., Bridgeport, Connecticut.

School District
Levels Grounds at Elementary School

The Ocean Beach elementary school is undergoing considerable change of terrain during the summer vacation. Mrs. Martha K. McIntosh, the principal, announced this week. Main improvement is the leveling off of the grounds to eliminate the hazardous slopes and ditches that have been caused by erosion during the past few years.

The Ebers street side of the grounds are eight feet higher than the Sunset Cliffs side, she said. Result of the slope is that the water from rains has caused numerous ditches and crevasses that have constituted a hazard to the children during play hours.

In addition to the grading the school system has found that considerable excavation is necessary to lower water pipes underneath the grounds. Plan is to complete the improvement this summer and have the grounds ready for the opening of school this fall, she said.

Bayview 6101

Our local meeting will be held as usual in the Assembly of God church hall, Cape May and Ebers, on Monday, August 7, at 1:30 p.
m. Come out and meet the others and see what we are doing. Although civilian defense may not be as active as heretofore, we still, however, are on a "standby" basis, and most of our women have never stopped making the slippers and laprobes so much needed for the men at the hospitals convalescing. And soon now we will be called upon to fill those small Christmas boxes as we did last year. We know these boxes were received with great enthusiasm and with this in mind it should inspire us to get busy and obtain those little articles needed, some of which are pencils, pens, razor blades, shaving cream, writing paper and envelopes, post cards, playing cards, parlor games, small books (particularly detective and other intriguing novels), puzzles, shoe shining kits, sewing kits, nuts in the shell, hard candy

MR. WINKLE GOES TO WAR

By THEODORE PRATT

W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Forty-four-year-old Wilbert Winkle, who operates a general repair shop back of his home, is notified by his draft board that he is in 1-A. He breaks the bad news to his domineering wife, Amy, and tramps off to work without even kissing her goodby. Neighbors call the next night and shake their heads solemnly, and the local paper publishes his picture on the front page. Winkle tacks a CLOSED sign over his shop. Mrs. Winkle confides her worries. She fears he might get interested in other women, but Wilbert says she has nothing to worry about. Winkle leads the draft parade and they march off behind the band. The martial music sends a chill up his spine.

CHAPTER V

Mr. Winkle wasn't sure if this was said in the right spirit. He was glad Amy didn't appear in time to hear it. He had been watching for her, and during the last of the six blocks, he saw her, hurrying along to keep up. Her face was flushed. She waved to him, and Mr. Winkle, wondering if it was the correct thing to do, waved back.

After they arrived at the open-air bus station, there was a quarter of an hour of confusion whose details Mr. Winkle never remembered very well. The selectees left their formation and searched out their respective families. Mr. Winkle found his wife and dog. Penelope was enlivened by the excitement to yelp several times. Mrs. Winkle said, "You looked very military."

"I'm the leader," he told her.

The horn of the bus honked.

Tears welled in Mrs. Winkle's eyes. "I'm not going to cry," she announced. And the tears didn't spill over but remained in her eyes when she blinked them back, fast. He and Amy looked at each other solemnly. They embraced. They held each other very close. They kissed, and kissed again, while the band played, women wept, and handkerchiefs and flags waved.

Things were fast getting out of hand.

The next thing Mr. Winkle knew was that he found himself seated in the bus and the vehicle was getting under way. Looking back, he saw Mrs. Winkle holding up Penelope so that she could see him go to war. Penelope wasn't interested, but looked the other way.

Not all of the bus was occupied by the draft contingent. There hadn't been enough of them to charter a vehicle for their sole use. He sat alone, not because he thought himself, as the leader, any better than the others. Nor did he care to be aloof; he would have welcomed somebody to talk with, but none of his charges joined him. Jack Pettigrew sat up beside the driver.

The bus stopped and several more people got on. One of them was a young, blowy blonde. Mr. Winkle watched, fascinated, as Freddie maneuvered the selectee beside him out of his seat and grinned winningly at the blonde. She sat beside Freddie at once, and they began an animated conversation.

This broke the tension the draftees brought with them from their send-off. They laughed, and began to talk and joke, and discuss their voyage in voices just a little too loud to be natural.

At noon the bus stopped at a scheduled station for lunch. Mr. Winkle herded his charges to the counter inside the glass-front roadside restaurant, where he produced the proper paper to obtain meals for them as guests of the Government. Freddie Tindall remained outside, talking to the blonde. She was catching another bus here.

He let Freddie alone until he had ordered his own meal. Then he went out and told Freddie, "If you want to get something to eat, you'd better come in."

"Be right with you, Pop," Mr. Winkle went back to the counter.

Freddie took his time. He waited until the blonde's new bus pulled in. He put her on it and then joined the others. Some of the men looked at him in admiration and envy.

"What would you have done," Freddie inquired of Mr. Winkle, "if I'd gotten on the bus with her and gone away?"

Mr. Winkle regarded him severely. "I wouldn't have done a thing. That would be for others. You wouldn't get very far."

"You mean with the blonde?" Freddie inquired, and received his laugh.

He kept up a horseplay of saying that this was as far as he wanted to go, that he'd had a nice ride, but would now go back home. When this wore thin, he introduced a new subject. "Still proud to fight, Pop?" he inquired.

Mr. Winkle kept his temper. "We all ought to be," Freddie declared. "Well, I'm not," Freddie declared. "I'm not going because I want to, and I don't care who knows it. I don't want to be any darned soldier. Lugs, that's all they are. They're going to make me into a lug."

Mr. Winkle looked around. No one except the contingent from Springfield seemed to have heard these remarks. The men listened with interest. Some of them looked startled.

"I don't think you ought to say such things," Mr. Winkle advised. "Who says that, Pop? Who says I can't say what I want?"

"Well . . ." began Mr. Winkle. "Isn't this a free country, Pop? Can't a man say what he wants? Tell me that, Pop."

When Mr. Winkle didn't reply, Freddie was infuriated, taking out his resentment on him as if holding Mr. Winkle personally responsible for his being drafted. "Tell me that, you old coot, and don't act like we're in the Army already."

Before Mr. Winkle could gather his outraged senses, Jack Pettigrew pushed through the group of men and came up to Freddie. His thin face was white with anger. "Don't talk like that to Mr. Winkle," he ordered.

Freddie turned on the revolving stool to Mr. Winkle, ignoring Jack. "How about that, Pop? Should I talk like that to you?"

Jack made a lunge at Freddie, who whirled, placed his hand on the boy's chest, and shoved him back.

Jack, crying imprecations, returned to the fray with clenched fists.

Freddie jumped up to meet him. Mr. Winkle was gripped with dismay. Things were fast getting out of hand. In fact, they were already well out of hand. The proprietor of the place was yelling, a waitress shrieked, and customers called out.

Mr. Winkle heard his own voice crying, "Now look here! Look here! Save that for the Germans! Or the Japs!"

The men laughed. Jack subsided, glaring. Freddie made ironic grimaces.

An armistice had been declared in the premature war. Mr. Winkle breathed with relief. He wasn't certain that he liked the responsibilities of leadership.

He counted the men carefully as they got back on the bus, making sure Freddie was among them. His glance caught that of Jack, whose eyes were hot and who said, "I'm going to get him! I'm going to get him plenty!"

"That's all right," Mr. Winkle calmed him. "I appreciate your standing up for me, but you've done enough."

Another hour's ride got them to their destination, and they descended at a busy station where they were transferred to another bus. This was already half filled with soldiers-elect like themselves.

"Hello, fresh meat," one of these greeted them.

From the highway, three miles out of town, the entrance to the camp was no more than a dirt side road where two armed guards stood and a sign declared this to be a military reservation and that no admittance was allowed.

Having been invited, they were admitted.

After passing through a quarter of a mile of thick woods, they came to a great cleared space in which stood a hidden city. There were many wooden buildings, some of them one story, others of two stories. Dust rose from the passing of their own and other vehicles, and from marching feet.

The bus stopped before a building which had a sign on it saying, "Induction Checking Station." Standing up or sitting on the ground before this were perhaps fifty more selectees. They stared at the newcomers who descended from the bus. No one spoke in the atmosphere of patient waiting and weary anxiety.

Mr. Winkle looked about, somewhat at a loss. He didn't know what to do next.

A tall, thickset Sergeant, holding a sheaf of papers in his hand, came out of the building. He looked at the new arrivals and asked huskily, "Who's the leader?"

Mr. Winkle went forward. The Sergeant gazed down at him. Mr. Winkle saw the mouse-recognition-look come into the man's face, the same way it showed in Amy's. Then the Sergeant took on an expression as if to say he didn't mean to be surprised at anything sent to him. He inquired, "Got 'em all, John?"

Mr. Winkle said he had and turned over the group papers. This relieved him of his command. He was a leader no longer, but just a selectee like any other. Because of this, and because of the mouse-look he had been given, he felt deflated and not in the least like a lion.

The Sergeant went inside. Mr. Winkle waited with the others. Their eyes went frequently to the door. What smiles there were on any faces were nervous ones.

The Sergeant came out again. In a foghorn voice he began calling names. It was nearly an hour, during which other busses arrived, before the Springfield men were reached.

Mr. Winkle found himself in a small room passing down a line of soldier clerks sitting at desks. In place of his own papers, an information card was given to him, which he was instructed to hang around his neck by the cord attached. Thus ticketed, he took his place in line down the hall, and finally into an enormous room where many men were in the process of being examined.

Here, Mr. Winkle saw, was where his fate would be decided. He was told to drop his bag by the wall under a clothing hook, and strip.

Shivering, he stood in line clad only in his socks and shoes and information card. It was humiliating when he compared his skinny physique with the more robust bodies about him. Several men glanced at him as if to say he didn't amount to much.

He began to run a gantlet of doctors and medical assistants. Each doctor had one part of the body to examine. Mr. Winkle was accustomed to having his family physician make something of a fuss over him, cajoling him, and treating him like a living, breathing, human being instead of a skeleton within and around which was gathered a certain amount of flesh and certain organs. Now he felt like an automobile being put together on an assembly line in a factory.

His card was taken away from him and in its place there was daubed in iodine a number on his chest. That, he was sure, was the final indignity. He was questioned, weighed, measured, poked, tapped, and the inner workings of his structure listened to.

He was asked to read a chart without his glasses and with them. He regretted each letter he made out, but he couldn't, as he had half planned, bring himself to cheat. His eyes were good enough to fight a war. Even his pulse was found sufficiently calm after he had been sent running in one place for a minute without going anywhere.

Well, he reflected, he hadn't really counted on any of these things to save him. It was his dyspepsia he was banking on.

He was laid on a paper-covered table. His stomach was kneaded by the doctor. He was asked, "What's this on your record about dyspepsia?"

Mr. Winkle detailed and even boasted about his acute intestinal difficulties and the need he had for his pills. He was kneaded some more, as if he were an automobile no longer, but a piece of dough.

The doctor gave a skeptical grunt, a deprecating snort, and wrote something on Mr. Winkle's record sheet.

Mr. Winkle, to his horror, gathered that his dyspepsia had made little impression, that it had let him down completely.

At this, as he was passed on to the next doctor, his heart beat so fast that the doctor, who applied a stethoscope to it, took it away and actually looked at him, saying patiently, "I expect it from the kids, but not from you."

Mr. Winkle was abashed. He accused himself of behaving like a child, like Jack Pettigrew whom he saw standing tensely, on guard, with a strained, taut expression on his boy's face.

And then Mr. Winkle went through an experience he never expected to have.

All during the days leading up to this, and during the first of the examining process, he hoped fervently that he would be rejected. He had even prayed for it. But now he found himself hoping he would be accepted.

Popular Choice: You'll like fried chicken if it's dipped in cornflakes instead of bread crumbs for a change.

Cottage cheese molds nicely when mixed with garden green onions, radishes, diced green pepper and seasonings. Serve on lettuce for a luncheon treat.

Bread Pudding: Try it with brown sugar instead of white for a different touch. If you make it plain with raisins, try a lemon custard sauce.

Scrambled Eggs on the menu? Serve with jelly, sauteed chicken livers or french fried shrimp. All are combinations hard to beat.

Au gratin vegetables: Cabbage, cauliflower, potatoes and tomatoes. For a topping try crushed cereal like cornflakes with butter and melted cheese.

Put Pears Into Your Canning Schedule

(See Recipes Below)

Relish With Meals

These later summer months find the markets still dotted with fruits that make wonderful jams and relishes. Those of you who want that extra special something to add to your meals during winter will want to take advantage of the crops and put them up in various forms.

Most fall fruit is sweet and requires little of precious sugar in the preserving. Making them into jams, butters or marmalades will give you the joy of having the fruit instead of just the juice.

Pears made into jam or honey have long been favorites throughout the nation, and these are recipes I know you'll like. Commercial pectin assures you of success in making the thick, jellied consistency, and miraculously gives you more jam than you dreamed possible out of a small batch of fruit.

Ripe Pear Jam.
(Makes 8 six-ounce glasses)
3½ cups prepared fruit
4½ cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, peel and core about 2½ pounds fully ripe pears. Crush thoroughly or grind. Measure sugar into a dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure fruit into a 5 or 6 quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water, if necessary.

Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well and continue stirring until mixture comes up to a hard boil. Pour in sugar at once and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. Pour in sugar immediately, stirring constantly. To reduce foaming, ¼ teaspoon butter may be added. Continue stirring, bring to a full, rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. The peach crop is good this year. Peaches and oranges are a delightful combination with just a suggestion of lemon:

Peach-Orange Marmalade.
2 dozen large peaches, peeled
6 oranges
Juice of 1 lemon
Sugar (½ as much as fruit)

Cut the peel from three of the oranges into pieces. Cover with water and boil until tender. Drain and grind. Cut peaches and oranges (discard peel of other three) into thin slices and add lemon juice. Measure and add ½ of the amount of sugar. Boil rapidly until thick and clear. Pour into clean, hot jars and seal.

Spiced crabapples are good accompaniments for meats. In fact, when you serve meat with a relish such as this, it will even seem to stretch a small meat course:

MISS ELIZABETH WISDOM TO WED SUNDAY TO JOHN ENGINE VENTER OF IDAHO

Announcement was made this week of the approaching wedding of Miss Elizabeth Jeanne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Wisdom, 4843 Voltaire st., and John Eugene Venter, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Venter of Boise, Idaho. The ceremony is set for the home of the bride Sunday evening, Aug. 7, at 8:30, with Rev. J. F. Roberts officiating. Mr. Wisdom will give his daughter in marriage, the maid of honor will be Miss Helen Todd and the best man, Jack Maynard, both of Camp Pendleton. Miss Wisdom is a graduate of Point Loma high school and a year ago enrolled with the women's reserve of the Marine corps. Mr. Venter has been in the Marine corps for four years and recently returned from overseas service in the Pacific war theatre. Both are stationed at Camp Pendleton.

Following the ceremony, a wedding reception in honor of the couple will be held at the Wisdom home.

Woman's Club To Hold "Open House" At New Location

"Open house" for the new Ocean Beach Woman's club building has been set for Sunday, August 6, Mrs. C. W. Early, the president, announced today. For several months workmen have been doing the remodeling, the cement work, the painting and the decorating and the place is in ship shape for its new purpose, according to Mrs. Early.

The club building is a realization, she says, of visions the women of this club have held for about 20 years. The club was organized in 1925, was federated in 1927 and has retained its federated status ever since.

Plan is to show the Ocean Beach public, all of whom, men as well as women, are cordially invited, what has been realized through long years of planning, hard work and by reason of the generosity of the members as well as of others here in providing the necessary funds. The "open house" is set for Sunday, from 2 to 9 o'clock in the afternoon in the rooms at 1959 Abbott st. since their misfortune in losing Bacon st. Punch and wafers will be served.

Mrs. C. H. Woolley, house chairman, and Mrs. B. H. Nielsen, hospitality chairman, are in charge of the plans for the opening. Other women who are taking part and who will assist in showing visitors the building and who will explain the various activities of the club, are Mrs. R. J. Long, chairman, and Mrs. Paul W. Farrar, co-chairman, of the literature department; Mrs. F. T. Hiltz, membership chairman; Mrs. G. W. Bridger, garden department chairman; Mrs. E. A. Kineman, music chairman, and Mrs. Morris Fried, Red Cross chairman.

Mrs. C. W. Varney is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the opening. Mrs. Hiltz and Miss Jean Rittenhouse composed the purchasing committee. Through their foresight and knowledge of real estate, the club was able to obtain this valuable property. Miss Rittenhouse donated the three lots on which the building stands.

Mrs. Early also gives great credit to Miss Kate Spani for her efforts toward the new building while president of the club during the past year.

The building is one that was purchased from the San Diego city school board and was moved in the spring from its previous location on the grounds of the Ocean Beach elementary school. Previously it was in the rooms at 1959 Abbott st. since their misfortune in losing their meeting place at the foot of Newport ave. in the high tide disaster of 1941.

The fund to pay for the structure has been built up over a period of years, reports Mrs. Early, and all except a few hundred dollars of the cost already is paid. The building itself is debt free, she says.
